

Visa Information

The visa application process can be complicated and may vary depending on your country of origin. If you're a U.S. citizen, you may also consider the K-1 Fiancé(e) Visa, which allows your Japanese fiancé(e) to enter the United States for the purpose of marriage. The couple must marry within 90 days of the Japanese partner's arrival.

However, for citizens of other countries, the process of bringing future Japanese wife to home country may vary. It's crucial to consult your country's immigration authorities and follow the appropriate procedures and requirements.

