

Visa Information

If you're determined to get married to a Russian mail order bride, then you need to know that you and your future spouse will undergo some legal procedures.

If you're from the US, you must apply for a K-1 visa. This will cost you more than $800, and upon the arrival of your Russian mail order wife, you're expected to get married to her within 90 days so that your spouse can stay in the US legally.

If you're not from the US, you should apply for a visa equivalent to a fiancé visa, like K-1, as every country has different names for such visa types. Then, you should follow the regulations required to bring your lady and get married to her.

