

Visa Information

If you're a US citizen heading to China, you should fill out the visa application and make sure your passport is good for 6 months and has space. Bring a recent photo and get your travel details ready. It costs about $140 and takes about 4 days to process, but you can speed it up for extra.

For those from other countries, it's pretty similar. You'll need your application, a valid passport, and the right documents for your trip. The cost and processing time can vary depending on where you're from. So always double-check the latest rules with your local Chinese embassy.
